TRUSTWORTHINESS

“It is an equal failing to trust everybody and to trust nobody.” (18th Century English Proverb)

Trust is the foundation of all relationships; friendships, business partnerships, romantic love, family bonds, teacher-student, and leader-community. What lesson have you learned about trust in your life that has helped you to decipher whether someone (or something) is worthy of your trust or not? Some lessons can be painful and frustrating. People might learn that when their gut tells them something’s wrong, they shouldn’t ignore it. Or they might learn that trusting someone too soon can lead to disappointment. Other times lessons can be surprising and rewarding. People might learn that trusting themselves can lead to great success or close friends always come through for them. These lessons can serve us greatly in the future. How have these lessons, good or bad, served you in a positive way? How can they serve you as a leader, teacher, or role model?
